

I had to get out of there, clear my head. After dinner, rest a while. I am not following this advice. And really I should be running. Feels good to get away from there. And that other place, which I'm also putting behind me. Best not to think about it. I've been to [_____]. I visited there when I was taking flowers to the cemetery for my grandpa. A house with a strange history. Maybe we build monuments for things we should forget.

?